As the European servicing hub of the internationally renowned TransMarket Group (TMG), Oryctérope Transalpin creates, develops, and improves proprietary trading strategies in order to capture opportunities and manage risk in the most competitive financial markets around the world. Working at the intersection of finance, mathematics, and technology, we develop our edge through expertise in quantitative research, algorithms, and infrastructure to produce systematic trading solutions which contribute significant liquidity across global markets to facilitate price discovery and risk transfer.

Our structured employee training and development proves we value our people and provide continuous support to succeed at all levels in their careers. Our superior results are achieved by the collaborative and entrepreneurial nature of our teams and the discipline and patience to relentlessly advance our business and improve our expertise.

Key Responsibilities:

- Work with teammates to learn all facets of trading and assist in the operation of existing strategies
- Develop expertise in relative value market fundamentals, quantitative modeling, and risk management
- Build and maintain quantitative trading model, tools, and analytics
- Monitor real-time execution of algorithmic trading systems

Preferred Skills or Experience:

- Strong understanding of finance, math, probability, and statistics
- Attention to detail and the ability to make sound judgments under pressure
- Ability to work well in a team in a constantly changing environment
- A bachelor's, master's, or doctorate degree in technical or industry related field – e.g. Quantitative Finance, Mathematics, Engineering or Programming
- Experience in R / Python / C++ / other computer programming languages

This opportunity offers the chance to join an ambitious team in expanding the TransMarket Group of Companies' presence in global markets, and to be part of growing the entrepreneurial servicing business here in Martigny. If you think you have what it takes, please get in touch.
